

Subsoiler/Ripper Points

The History of the SCRIP Point

The last couple of years now we have been running our SCRIP point next to several different competitor's points. To date we have not found a subsoiler point that out wears the SCRIP! Another advantage of the SCRIP point is that, because of the design, actually reduces the wear on your shanks and pulls easier than other 7" winged points on the market. Now we can also offer you the SCRIP design in a 10" wide point.

In this picture, the point on the left (SCRIP) was run on the same machine as the one on the right. The one on the right is a point from John Deere. As you can see the JD point is almost worn out and the SCRIP point has several hundred acres of use left. This point was run the summer of 2004 in North Manchester, Indiana.
